Work Matters

Sometimes we separate our faith from our everyday work, as though Monday through Friday doesn't really count. Hey, it's just a job. It's just work. But 1 Thessalonians 4 says otherwise. It says to work with your hands. Why? So your life is respectable...and you're not dependent on others unnecessarily. That means your work matters. Your effort matters. And your responsibility matters. It's not just about making a living—it's about living with integrity and respect. So, do your best when no one is watching. Always be dependable and honest. And, show up even when you don't feel like it. So whatever your work is...Do it well...every time. Because even your daily work can reflect your faith.
